

Severe flat foot deformity in a young patient

A double calcaneal osteotomy was performed shifting the calcaneus (heel bone) as well as a lengthening to rebuild the arch. The Lapidus procedure not only realigns the bunion but it helps to restore the arch. A tendon transfer (flexor digitorum longus) will replace the function of the damaged posterior tibial tendon to further support the arch

